Rules & Regulations

Super Six Cricennis Tournament

Tournament Format: Tournament will be played on knockout basis. Each team in the tournament consists of 6 players. All matches will be 6 overs a side. Players can bowl maximum of 2 overs.

Single Wicket: Tournament will be played Single Wicket, not Double Wicket i.e. the batsman will play at one end and after the over, umpires & batsmen will change ends. Whereas three stumps will be placed at the non-striker's end.

Reporting Time: The full composition of a team has to be present 10 minutes before the start of their game. Failing to do so will result in an automatic loss of toss for the team in question. Incase both teams are short of players, then the one with more players present on the ground at the start of the game will be declared toss winners.

Players: All teams need to declare a roster of 07 players. Only players announced on the roster will be eligible to play. A team will be disqualified if it plays with a player not on the roster. If a team's roster is severely depleted for any reason, then organizing committee can make an exception and allow the team to fill in additional players.

At no time, the number of players on roster of a team will exceed 07. A player cannot play for more than one registered team.

Playing kit: The teams playing the match should wear the white T-shirts along with lower.

Run-up: Lines will be marked at bowling end & in no circumstances a bowler can go beyond that line to start his bowling run-up.

LBW: To prevent controversy, there will not be Leg before wicket out.

Byes/Leg-byes: Byes, leg byes and overthrows are possible means of scoring runs.

No-Balls: ICC rules for no balls will be applied with an exception of any ball above shoulder high will be called No Ball.

Wides: Lines will be marked on either side of wickets to assist umpires and the balls going away from those lines will be called wides.
2 runs are awarded to the batting side for wides & no balls plus an extra delivery.

Dead Balls: Dead balls are not counted as extra balls. A ball is declared dead if it bounces more than once in front of the batting crease after leaving the bowler's hand. If it hits the bat or the player after two bounces even then it will be treated as a dead ball.

Wicket keeper: Fielding a keeper is not compulsory but it must be kept in mind that byes are counted as runs.

Last Player Batting: A team will be all out only if their 6 players are out. There will be last player batting but he has to take 2 runs minimum, the runner at non striking end can be any member of his team and can be dismissed at either end.

Injury to Bowler: If a bowler is injured after bowling few deliveries, then a player who has not taken any wicket will complete that over or a player who has taken lesser numbers of wickets.

Retirement of Players: A player who scores 25 runs will have to retire (player playing on 24 runs can score minimum of 1 run & maximum of 6 runs). He can resume batting after the fall of 5th wicket. If 5 players are out and the last batsman or his non-striker scores a 25 then he need not retire until the match ends.

Substitutions: Substitutions may be allowed if the umpires-agree that the injury has occurred during the match (to one of the seven playing members).

Results: If a game is tied at the end of both the innings during a knockout match, then the team that lost lesser number of wickets will win. If the number of wickets lost is also the same, then the team that played fewer overs to score the runs will win. After this, a bowl out by 3 players/bowlers will decide the winner.

Super Over: - This over is mandatory for both the teams. It should be either third or fourth over. Batting Team will decide which over they wants to take and how many runs they wants to make in super over. Bowling team will then decide which bowler they want to bowl.

If batting team will succeed to achieve the target

Then they will get 2*decided target + extra runs scored

Otherwise they will get "Zero" for that over.

Rule for retirement of players shall remain the same.

E.g. :- If batting team decides to score 10 runs in super over and the team scores 16 runs then the exact score for that over would be 2*10+6= 26 runs

While only 16 runs would be added in batsman account.

If the team scores less than 10 then score for that over would be Zero and no runs will be added in batsman account.
